DOWN SYNDROME

Precision Academics Resource Bank

Our single CD ROM includes over 400 educational workbooks (providing over 6,000 pages of resources, at 4 different Ability Levels) to support families and schools in the education of students who have Down Syndrome from 3 years to 19+ years of age

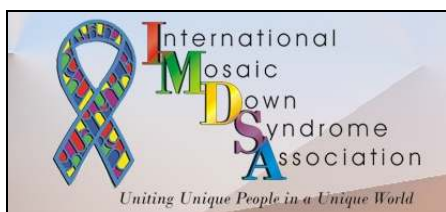

- All resources are Research Based, developed by highly experienced professionals to support schools and families through the provision of curriculum based resources that demonstrate Best Educational Practice for curriculum differentiation to support Inclusive Education
- Provides a fantastic Resource Base for students who have Down Syndrome as well as other students who are highly visual learners . The wide range of resources can be tailored to suit students of all ages and ability levels. Resources are provided at 4 Academic Functioning Levels, to suit the widest possible range of individual needs. Stimulating, success-based workbooks covering curriculum outcomes associated with Pre-School through to High School curriculum (mainstream and life skills)
- The Precision Academics Resource Bank is perfect for students who have Down Syndrome, and also provides outstanding curriculum-based, resource support for a wide range of other special learning needs (eg Autistic Spectrum Disorder, Gifted and Talented, AD/HD, Receptive/Expressive Language Disorder, English as a Second Language, Dyslexia ...)
- Includes over 400 Workbooks in 20 Focus Areas teaching “Key Learning Skills” and providing resources across multiple areas of the curriculum.
- Provides easy to use Pre- and Post- Testing of Functional Literacy and Numeracy to help you quickly and easily find the correct starting place and monitor each student’s progress over time.
- Every Workbook is outcomes-based, supporting both Curriculum Content and Key Learning Skills, including Assessment and Work Sample pages. All resources are linked directly to Curriculum Outcomes – Mainstream and/or Life Skills
- Includes activities which are suitable for groups based programs. This makes the Precision Academics Resource Bank ideal for schools, parent support groups, and community programs.
- Suitable for spoken and signed communication
- Fits seamlessly into Individual Education Plans
- Contains resources which are suitable for both Secular and Christian faith based curricula, allowing schools and families to select and use the resources which best suit their needs.

This fantastic Australian resource is now available around the world...

“This is an excellent resource for students who have Down Syndrome. The Workbooks provide great access to age-appropriate, differentiated curriculum to support Inclusive Education. We are delighted to be able to offer this Australian program to our Canadian schools and families.” Dr. Ashleigh Molloy, President of the Down Syndrome Assoc. of Toronto; Awarded 2007 Educational Leader of the Year by the Council for Exceptional Children.

“Precision Academics provides a fantastic line of workbooks for pre-school age to Junior High School levels. These workbooks are specially designed for those with special needs. It takes a lot to impress me, so I have to tell you that these workbooks knocked my socks off! I only wish I had these when my son was at school. I know they surely would have made his life in school much easier! They are big in Australia and now are making their way to the US and other countries. What is so fantastic about this program is not only do they offer these workbooks, they also have additional stuff on their site for you to use! And the best part of all is they have made their system so affordable that your school district wouldn't bat an eye at the cost! They have special prices for individuals and school districts and all you have to do is tell them that you heard about their product from IMDSA (or any other Down Syndrome Association) and they will give you a discount! Be sure to check out their site. You can look at samples of the workbooks and see for yourself what great tools these are for your children!” Kristy Colvin, President of the International Mosaic Down Syndrome Association

“My Georgia, now 11, has Down Syndrome. She is in Year 5 in mainstream school has used the Precision Academics program since Kindergarten and we love it. Part of it's attraction is that most of the work has been done for teachers, when it comes to modifying work for our kids, regardless of the child's age, abilities or the subject being taught. When Georgia has mastered one thing, we just go up to the next level in the PA program for her and this will take her through her high school education. The other thing I love about this program, is that it allows other kids to become involved in areas such as gross and fine motor skills etc and these are often kids who are not special needs but do need help in these areas. Georgia is fully included with her peers and does all her school work in the classroom, has a great groups of friends, who genuinely like her and support her. She has played soccer, with our local soccer club since she was 6, rides, swims and is off to Diocesan athletics carnival next week. She is regularly invited to birthday parties, movie days etc with her friends and is going on a week long excursion with years 5 and 6 to Canberra next term. I believe that much of her confidence, love of life and sports, as well as her friendships, has come from her use of the Precision Academics program, that has allowed her to continually succeed in the classroom from an early age, at an academic level appropriate to her. I am always on the lookout for programs/systems/ideas that will help Georgia academically, but I have yet to find anything as comprehensive or user friendly as Precision Academics. If you have any questions or would like more info re the PA programme please feel free to email me.” ‘Aussie Amanda’...Parent...amandabartlett@bigpond.com

“Precision Academics provides an affordable option for schools, who have limited special education budgets and are looking for excellent resources for students with a wide range of special learning needs.”
Di Brown, Head of Additional Needs, Catholic Education Diocese of Armidale.

“I am so glad someone recommended Precision Academics to me. As a Homeschooling Parent, it is the answer to my prayers!” Christie... Homeschooling Parent

“The Cross Curricula Workbooks, in particular, have been a total success for our student who has Down Syndrome. He has been able to work effectively and has produced fantastic work. He is really proud and his parents are very, very pleased.” Mark...Principal, High School

“Precision Academics is an excellent program. It just plain works. I work with over 30 children at my school using this program. When I walk into the classroom carrying your Workbooks, without exception, every child is looking up at me with pleading eyes, saying, “Is it my turn yet? Can I PLEASE come with you and do the Workbooks?” Your programs work their way around and around, helping the children to master the basics. They are SO happy to be able to do it. It works and they love it. I am a true fan” Ian...Educational Assistant

Workshops and Packages: Professional Development and Resource Support

Precision Academics can also provide an outstanding, hands on, highly educational, entertaining and inspirational workshop for teachers, educational assistants and parents: “Inclusive Education - Differentiating the curriculum to support students who have special learning needs” This full day Workshop is also available as a two day “Train the Trainer” Workshop which will prepare each participant to provide a one day workshop back at their own school or organisation. In both the 1 day and 2 day Workshops, participants will be full involved in a range of extremely enjoyable, hands on activities which demonstrate these skills in action.

- Part 1: “Key Learning Skills” This module teaches 12 “Key Learning Skills” which help our children and adolescents who have special learning needs to develop their creativity, confidence, problem solving, listening and instruction following skills, working memory and communication skills.
- Part 2: “Curriculum Differentiation” This module teaches parents and educators strategies to bridge the gap between professional reports and recommendations, Individual Education Plans, and the day to day learning experiences. Participants will be fully involved in experiencing and creating excellent resources, suitable for home and school use for children and adolescent who have mild, moderate and severe levels of need.
- Part 3: “Specific training in using differentiated curriculum resources” This module teaches why and how to use differentiated curriculum resources to cater to individual learning needs, using the Precision Academics Resource Bank as a model. Participants will be shown strategies for tracking progress, encouraging mastery learning, building self-confidence, and linking key learning skills to everyday learning experiences.
- If your Association, School District or other group would like to arrange Professional Development, we are able to offer fantastic combination packages including our Workshops and the Resource Bank – outstanding support at a very affordable price. Contact us at sales@precisionacademics.com.au to discuss options.
